GEORGE DIXON AND TERRY M'GOVERN TO MEET AT 118 POUNDS.

Manager O'Rourke Says There Is a Mistaken Impression as to the Weight-The Articles Do Not Call for 122 Pounds as Supposed -Both Men Are Ready for Bout. The impression which prevails that George Dixon and Terry McGovern are to meet next Tuesday night at the Broadway A. C. at 122 pounds is wrong. According to Tom O'Rourke, who showed a reporter of THE SUN a copy of the articles of agreement, the battle is to be decided at the featherweight limit, 118 pounds, and both pugilists must be on the scales at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Sam Harris least trouble in reducing to 118 pounds.

He bases his reasons for this on the fact that Terry tipped the beam at only 115% pounds when he tackled "Pedlar" Palmer at West Chester last September. There was much oubt at that time as to whether McGovern could get to the required weight, 116 pounds, the limit at which the Palmer match was fought. but he soon upset calculations to this effect by working hard and earnestly and making the

The possibility of the bantam champion being overweight worried his friends at that time. They are confronted by the same dilemma now and some believe that he will not be able to reduce himself to the scale called for by the present articles. McGovern does not dissipate in any form and for this reason any extra weight he takes on is simply muscle and strength. He never permits himself to get fat, Yesterday he weighed a trifle over 119 pounds. He is pretty sure that he will drop to 118 before to-morrow night and not gain any more until after scaling time. He is in wonderful shape and has no fear of a reverse.

O'Rourke took another trip to Lakewood yesterday and spent several hours with Dixon. He says that George never looked or felt better. His strength, Tom says, is marvellous, and there is nothing lacking in both speed and endurance. Dixon is going to build up from now on, as he weighed only 115% pounds yesterday. While O'Rourke does not think that it is best for Dixon to be as low as this a few days before the contest, he is not worrying about it.

It is expected that a large crowd will be present, including many of the out-of-town men who came here to see the McCoy-Maher mill and waited over to see the little fellows. Orders for tickets have been received from sports as far West as Kansas City. Nate Fenton Orders for tickets have been received from sports as far West as Kansas City. Nate Fenton is coming from Buffalo to see the mill. He won a hig roll on McCoy and is going to hazard some of it on Dixon. Fenton will be accompanied by about twenty friends. The Boston sports will arrive here to-merrow morning. Those who have purchased tickets are Jack Sheehan. Dick Murray, Jimmy Colville, Patsy Kerrigan, Dave Bjanchard and Jim Corley. All are on their townsman. Dixon. The Chicago sports, who returned to the Windy City as soon as the McCoy-Maher encounter was decided, will be back to-morrow night. Malachi Hogan, Jack Hand. Sam Summerfield, Frank Hutchison. Parson" Davies and Jim Timmons have all ordered boxes. The Western sports seem to like McGovern and it is thought that when they reach town the market will be flooded with money to place on the white boy. Little betting is going on as regards the actual resuit. Most of the speculation is being done on the number of rounds. Even money is offered that Dixon will not last ten rounds, and 10 to 9 that McGovern will be the victor in fifteen rounds. Many shrewd sports cannot figure why McGovern should be such a warm favorite. They offer all sorts of arguments against the prevailing price, but few of them, strange to say, have the temerity to risk their money. O'Rourke, however, is backing Dixon heavily. Un to date he says he has invested about $11,500.

This will be Dixon's last fight, win or lose, and preparations are being made to tender a benefit to him. The affair will take place at the Broadway A. C. on Jan. 16 and all the prominent boxers now in the East will appear. Some of the bets recorded vesterday were:—Dick Bernard $500 to $1,000 on Dixon and $1,000 even that the contest would last over fifteen rounds. Al Smith placed $1,000 to $600 on McGovern at 10 to 7, and declares mat although his sympathies are with McGovern at the Hotel Rivers informed The Sun reporter last night that he had received $3,000 to place on McGovern at 10 to 7, and declares finat although h of McGovern's most ardent and enthusiastic friends is Frank Burgess, the horseman. Burgess found the side bet of $1,000 for which McGovern and Sammy Kelly fought. Burgess took the Kelly hand and was quite confident that Kelly would win. When Terry won that fight he looked upon him as a wonder and has backed the hard-hitting Brooklynite ever since. Burgess is giving 2 to 1 and has $3,000 to bet. He can be found at Corbett's cale any night. Sylvie Warren is also on McGovern and has several commissions to place on the white puglist.

should McGovern beat Dixon there will be a merry time in Brooklyn in the neighborhood of Fifth avenue and Twenty-second street. This is where Terry's home is, and all of his friends are going to celebrate the victory by building bonfires and shooting off fireworks.

Lakewoon, Jan. 6.—A reporter for The Sun watched Dixon at work in his training quarters about one mile out of Lakewood this afternoon. Tom O'Rourke being also a spectator. Dixon has been training here for nearly a year, at intervals, and for the past three weeks has been working industriously in preparation for his battle with McGovern. Inspite of reports of heavy betting against him, Dixon has firm confidence in his own ability, and he remarked, without any bluster but with quite positive words, that as this was to be his last fight he should have to win it. Nothing in his talk, however, or that of Charley Miner, who has been his trainer for years, indicates that they underrate in the least. McGovern's calibre as a hard, scientific lighter.

"They talk about Terry's youth and strength," said Miner, "and that's all right, but George, here at 29 years is as good as he ever was, and I know, for I've handled him for years. He has not had to work off any weight, for he nevertakes on much, but we've simply hardened down and worked to last out as long as necessary. He's clean, quick and nervy for this fight and the 'long green' will come our way Tuesday night."

O'Rourke watched his man critically as he in turn, punched the bag, walked and rushed the track and did close quarter work with Miner, and the manager summed up with the words, "We'll win, sure." Dixon and his trainer will leave on the 10-50 train Tuesday morning, and he will be ready to weigh in at 3 o'clock.

Corbett Will Train at Lakewood.

Jim Corbett vesterday signed a contract with Gus Ruhlin and "Stockings" Conroy to train him for his battle with Jim Jeffries on March 15. Corbett has selected Lakewood as the place to do his work and will leave for that place within two weeks' time. It was first proposed to have the ex-champion go to White Plains, the place where kid McCoy is located. The Kid and Corbett for the best of friends, but McCoy does not care to have Corbett see him work, as he expects to meet. Pompadour Jim in the ring at a future date, George Considine wants Muldoon to help Corbett in his labors, and he may be engaged if the former champion consents. Champion Jeffries will return to town about Jan. 20. He will be quartered at Allenhurst, N. J., where he prepared for both Fitzsimmons and Sharkey. Billy Brady says that on hehalf of Jeffries he will not accept the purse of $20,000 which Tim Hurst has offered on behalf of the Genessee A. C. of Utica. Brady thinks that he can secure twice this amount elsewhere. Matchmaker Considine of the Bradiway A. C. thinks the battle will be decided at that club. He avers that his grotegé has agreed to face Jeffries there for a percentage of the garest. place within two weeks" time. It Tom Sharkey yesterday wired Tom O'Rourke from Hot Springs that he will arrive here in two weeks, ready to fight. He does not state whom he will meet first.

Is Off. Former Champion Doo Fitzsimmons received word yesterday that Jack McCormick, whom he is matched to box in Philadelphia on Jan. 20, has refused to fight him. Fitz says that McCormick, after agreeing to the winner taking Mecormics, after agreeing to the winner taking all the purse money, demanded compensation, win or lose. This Fitz would not agree to. Fitz is going to containe training, doing light work each day. He said yesterday.

"For the first time in my career I want it understand the light purpose of Tom Sharkey." For the first time in instance i want it understood that I will inglit dim Jeff ness or Tem Sharkey, winner to take al. This is the first time I have made this assertion. I will also bet $10,000 on the outside. Jeff ness ought to fight me. He licked me and I want a feturn battle. The reason why i will lotee Sharkey is because I have beat him once before and I can lick him again. I just wish to show the public what I can do with him. As to Kid McCoy, I will fight him if either Jeffries or Sharkey do not care to clash with me. I mean nothing but business,"

TO STOP FOULING IN FIGHTS. Suggestion to Allow a Referee to Inflict

Fines Upon Recalcitrant Pugilists. In the Sullivan-McFadden glove contest at the Broadway A. C. on Friday night the referee. Charles White, warned McFadden at least a dozen times for using foul tactics contrary to the Margula of Queensberry rules. which governed the contest. McFadden's offences consisted of holding in the clinches, using his elbows in back-handed fashion after missing swings, butting with the head and attempting to strike Sullivan when the latter had one knee on the floor. For any one of these violations of the code the referee would have been ustified in disqualifying McFadden without hesitation. His warnings were useless, because the offending pugilist was not afraid of being ruled out. Referee White, like other officials, was compelled to be lenient because of existing circumstances. The house was crowded and those present had paid good money to see & glove contest between two noted lightweights. Had White disqualified either man for roughing he would probably have been taken to task by many alleged sports who care nothing for the strict interpretation of the rules. Fairminded persons would undoubtedly have upheld the referee however.

This state of affairs is directly due to custom. It is growing to be a dangerous evil and will, in due time, greatly injure the sport of boxing under the law. Club managers have discussed the matter at length, but have been unable to flud a remedy. A suggestion has been made to THE SUN, however, which appears to be based upon exceptional judgment. If the referee of the Broadway Club, for example, should based upon exceptional judgment. If the referee of the Broadway Club, for example, should receive the power to inflict penalities of a monetary nature upon pugilists who wilfully break the ruies, it is thought the official would be held in much more respect than at present. The referee should be permitted to inflict fines," said The Sun's informant yesterday, "just as a baseball umpire does, only the fines should go. He should also be allowed to use his judgment in all cases of rule breaking. If a pugilist appears to be anxious to commit fouls he should be warned for his first offence and the fact should be made known to the crowd. For a second offence the referee should be empowered to inflict a fine of from $25 to $100, to be deducted from the fighter's share of the purse. A warning should go with the fine, and again the spectators should be informed of the referee's action. For a third offence the pugilist should be promptly disqualified without any further parley. In a preliminary bout, which does not earn so much purse money as a star event, the fines could range from $5 to $25 in the referee's judgment.

"The club management would be almost certain to collect all such fines and the pugilists would, therefore, be compelled to obey the rules or have their share of the gate receipts lessened. How many fouls would McFadden have committed if such power had been in the referee's possession? A fine of $100 for the second time he used his elbow, or held in a clinch, would have stopped him short. I do not mean to say, though, that a simple warning should be given for a foul when one fighter lands a blow intentionally upon his opponent who is down. Such a flagrant offence should merit instant disqualification. But for trivial offences the referee ought to be in a position to rule the fighters with a rod of iron.

"In a battle for the heavyweight championship the flines could be increased in value. It should be inserted in the articles of agreement that the referee be empowered to fine either contestant for breaking

It soon developed that Poe was to be the feature of every one's remarks. President Cuyler referred to him in his opening address and Mr. Alexander recited a poem entitled "Poe's Tiger, a Soliloquy by Eli Yale," which brought forth roars of laughter at the end of every verse. Mr. Hedges also featured Poe, and at last the little hero was made to stand up and reply. Great enthusiasm prevailed throughout the entertainment and pledges were taken to defeat Old Eli again next tall.

The Academy in Chicago, where they were playing is closed and the question as to whether it will open again is unsettled. Play for the second of the three cups presented by L. J. Busby began at the Nassau Country Club yesterday. The trophies were offered for plays on the Saturdays of December, January and February, each month completing a series. The count is on the system of three points for a win, two for second and one for third place. The course was in good shape yesterday, and with the fine weather tempted out a good-sized field to compete, of whom fourteen returned cards. The best gross score, 89, was made by Tappan, and, less his handicap of nine, he seemed to be an almost sure winner, but the last pair to finish included Richards, who returned 96, 20, 76, which won the first honors of the day. The former amateur champion was not the only prominent goller who suffered in that engagement. Lieut, MacFarlane of the Black Watch, who was killed in the action, was noted at Carnoustie for his terrific driving powers and for his matches with the strongest golfers that came his way. Once, in a foursome between Tait and himself against Bob and Archie Simpson, MacFarlane drove from tee to green of the last hole, clear over both bends of the burn. On another occasion, playing the island hole, he drove from the tee into the big bunker facing the ninth tee of the short course, a pulled stroke which would have almost made the green if straight, although the hole measures! 350 yards Col. ## GILT-EDGED RACQUETS. FOUR NOTED CHAMPIONS FIGURE IN

A SPECIAL DOUBLES MATCH.

Members of the Racquet and Tennis Cint

Treated to a Grand Exposition of the Sport-Miles and Latham of England Defeat Shaw and Standing of America The west court of the Racquet and Tennis Club was the scene yesterday afternoon of one of the most interesting contests ever held under the auspices of this noted organization. Although only purporting to be an exhibition, it was really a match of international caliber, in which the cream of the amateur and professional tanks appeared. The conditions called for a doubles rubber of best out of seven games at racquets between the four most distinguished exponents of the sport in the world, and the clubmen showed their appreciation of the treat by thronging

the galleries before Marker Hannigan called "play." C. L. Perkins was referee.

The contenders paired off as follows: Eustace H. Miles, amateur champion of England, and Peter Latham, professional champion of the world, against Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., Boston A. A., amateur champion of the United States and Canada, and George Standing, professional champion of America. With such a grand aggregathat the match furnished an object lesson in the J. V. S. Oddie, the Secretary of the New York science of the pastime. It was watched with the closest attention throughout, and made a lasting impression on those who were fortunate enough | Sir Thomas Lipton's plans for the next attempt to secure prominent seats.

In the important matter of team work the Englishmen seemed to have a distinct advantage, and it was to this rather than superiority of individual execution that their ultimate success was attributed. They played with machinelike unison at critical moments and won out after an arduous struggle of an hour and a quarter by four games to one. At a first glance these figures would seem to indicate that the English-men enjoyed an overwhelming victory, but as a matter of fact they were extended at every stage of the contest and a repetition, after Shaw and Standing have had some practice together, might lead to a reversal of the result. The Boston amateur was clearly off his game in the early stages of the match and Standing had to shoulder a lot of extra work. Miles however, was also a bit uncertain for a time, and in this respect it was about a stand-off between the amateurs for half the rubber. Then the Englishman struck his gait and backed up Latham in resolute and effective style. Shaw also improved as he went along and got in some really brilliant strokes, but the fact that he is a left-handed player proved

The Americans had another stern chase in the The Americans had another stern chase in the fourth game, but ranged on even terms in time to force a set to five aces. of placing, volleying and service ran out the game, 18 to 14.

The Englishmen followed up their advantage in the fifth game and ran to 13, while their rivals were reaching 9. Once more Shaw and Standing rose to the occasion and made it a set. They added another hard-earned ace before giving way. The Englishmen clung tenaciously to the inside position from this on and after long rallies for every acc. managed to gather in the requisite 5 and win the match. The contest ended in favor of Miles and Latham, as shown in the appended scores:

Hockey.

The hockey teams of the Naval Militia and Princeton University met at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink last night. While the contest was even, the playing was not of high class. The Militia team won by 2 goals to 1. This was rather a surprise, as it was not expected that Princeton would put up a very strong game. There was a large attendance. The game began promptly at 8:15 o'clock, and for about ten minutes neither side gained any advantage. The team work on both sides was ragged. Roberts finally got the pick and carried it toward Princeton's goal. He passed it to Waiton, who scored. When the first half was nearly over Waiton lifted the puck from the centre. ### NO WORD FROM LIPTON. He May Have Sent a Cup Challenge, However, by Yesterday's Mail. The report from London that Sir Thomas Lipton has made arrangements for another try for the America's Cup pleased yachtsmen very much. According to the cable despatch, the challenge has been sent and George L. Watson will design the new yacht. No word, however, has been received on this side about the challenge, but it may be on the way across the ocean. When Sir Thomas Lipton sailed from this city he said to a reporter of THE SUN that he boyed to have another challenge in the hands of the New York Yacht Club as a Christmas present. So many things had to be considered when he reached

England that he was unable to send the defi-Challenges for this cup are not issued by individuals, but by a recognized yacht club. It is probable that when Sir Thomas announced that he had challenged he meant that he had asked the Royal Ulster Yacht Glub to do it for him. If this is so, it may be a week or two before the formal challenge is received here. The request to the Royal Ulster Club would have to be considered at a meeting, and Secretary Hugh Mac-Gildowney authorized to challenge for the club. naming Sir Thomas Lipton as its representative. It is possible that all this formality has been gone through and that the challenge was sent by the

"I have received no information regarding Sir Thomas Lipton's plans for the next attempt to win the America's Cup. If any challenge is received for a race for the Cup it will come to me as Secretary of the club. Personally I think the report is a little premarture. I doubt very much whether Sir Thomas Lipton has yet made all his plans for another race.

David Barrie, who is the representative of Sir Thomas Lipton in this country, said:

"I don't know whether a challenge has been sent. It is possible that it has been sent without my being informed of the fact, but I think that the reports of the London papers that a challenge has been sent for a race in 1901 is a little premature I am all in the dark as to Sir Thomas Lipton's plans, and I think that it is more than likely that I would know something about it.

According to the Deed of Gift the challenging club must give ten months' notice in its challenger and the races must be sailed between May I and Nov. 1. By sending a defi now the challenger could name any date in the yachting season for the races, and it is likely that August would be selected as the time for the contests. Every one was disgusted with the weather conditions that prevailed last October.

Sir Thomas was well satisfied with the conditions that governed the races between the Columbia and the Shamrock, and these will in all probability govern the next race, except perhaps in one or two small details. There may be a change in the starting' arrangements. The Englishmen do not like the two gun-start, when each yacht receives two minutes to get over the line. On the other side the one-gun start prevails. It was this that governed the races in 1803 between the Vigilant and Velkyrie II. A one-gun start is the same as sending the yachts off with the word "go' just as all other contests are storted, and sending yachts with one gun gives to the skippers a chance to show what they can gain by skilful handling. The one-gun start is the rule in all the clubs that race in these waters with the exception of

Commodore Henry C. Rouse pre-sided, and at the guests' table were Capt. John R. Bartlett, U. S. N.; Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan, the Hon. James H. Hoyt, Commodore C. A. Postley, ex-Commodore E. C. Benedict and

C. A. Postley, ex-Commodore E. C. Benedict and Thomas C. Wood, who was a Lieutenant in the United States Navy and served on the Gloucester, formerly the yacht Corsair, at the battle of Santiago.

The feature of the occasion was the presentation to the club of a silver model of the Gloucester as she appeared in action. This was the gift of a member of the club, W. Gould Brokaw, owner of the noted schooner Amorita. The presentation was made on behalf of the donor by Capt. Bartlett, who removed a screen of flowers, disclosing the model of the former yacht Corsair, stripped for action and floating on a silver sea.

The speech of acceptance was made by James H. Hoyt, who came for the purpose from Cleveland. The story of the Gloucester's part in the fight was graphically told by an officer who sailed on her and the diners then listened to a musical programme.

The committee in charge of the dinner was Fleet-Capt. Herbert L. Satterlee, Frank S. Hastings and Walter T. Owen. Among those present were:

John Hyslop, A. P. Montaut, C. W. Wetmore, George R. Sheldon, Walter C. Kerr, Ashton Lemoine. Colgate Hoyt, J. Langdon Ward, W. G. Brokaw, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Holbrook H. Curtis, Walter Luttgen, J. ### If Columbia Goes Abroad Englishmen Will Prepare to Race Her.

has been heard of Mr. C. Oliver Iselin since his arrival on this side, and no further intimation" has been made regarding the prospects of a visit from the latest defender of the America Cup. Mr. Iselin has, I hear, been the guest of Sir Thomas Lipton, and it is expected that a definite statement regarding the proposed visit of the Columbia will be made before he leaves this side. We shall all be glad when this announcement is made—aye, of no—for the atrangements for next season's racing will be in a more or less unsettled condition until this point is decided. The latest rumor circulating here is that in the event of us having to prepare for a racing visit from the Yankee flyer, Mr. Arthur E. Payne will receive a commission to design a first-class tracing cutter somewhat similar in size to that which has just been built to Mr. G. L. Watson's designs for Mr. Charles Day Rose. This rumor comes from a quarter which inclines me to give it some credence, especially as the gentleman mentioned as the prospective owner is a personal friend of Mr. Iselin. After the excellent performances of Eldred and Turty many would be glad to see a bigger yacht by the Lipton, and it is expected that a definite statement

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

RECORDS OF THE CENTURY AND MILEAGE ENTHUSIASTS. Egloff First and Lehritter Second-Mrs. E.

K. Bayne Leading Woman Centurion— Studies for Experts and Novices at Coming Show-Affairs in N. C. A. and L. A. W. The official statement of the work of the several hard road riders and century enthusiasts of the New York division of the Century Road Club was made public yesterday. In the greatest number of centuries and mileage Gus Egloff leads, while C. A. Lehritter is second in each respect, and F. W. Hyde is third. By a system of figuring peculiar to the association, however, first place is awarded to Lebritter for "meritorious riding," Egloff being second and Hyde third. The percentage of these three is, respectively: 95.8 per cent., 83.2 per cent., and 48 6 per cent. On the face of the figures it seems that the number of "consecutive centuries" ridden figures largely in calculating the merit of these star road riders. Lebritter holds the record for the greatest number of successive centuries, with twelve hours allowed for each 100 miles. He covered 1,500 miles in this fashion, while Egloff made a timebreaking performance for ten centuries in 120 hours. Hyde's best work was six centuries in less than sixty hours. The complete century record of these three is as follows: Egloff, 21 singles, 29 doubles, 11 triples, 1 quadruple, 1 quintuple, and 1 ten-century ride; Lebritter, 28 singles, 25 doubles, 5 triples, 2 sextuples and 1 fifteen-century ride; Hyde, 15 singles, 14 doubles, 1 triple, 1 quadruple, squintuple and 1 sextuple. The score for centuries and total mileage for 1899 among the competitors is as follows:

1899 among the competitors is as follows:

Gus Egloff, 131 centuries, 17,401 miles: C. A. Lebritter, 121 centuries, 16,328 miles: F. W. Hyde, 76 centuries, 14.875 miles: J. B. Post, 44 centuries, 16,170 miles; Isaac Giliette, 60 centuries, 10,226 miles: Dr. E. McIntyre, 17 centuries, 16,482 miles; Paul Thomas, 52 centuries, 12,126 miles; C. E. Mylander, 51 centuries, 11,940 miles; C. E. Mylander, 51 centuries, 11,940 miles; C. E. Mylander, 53 centuries; Harry Galbraith, 37 centuries; J. Demarest, 38 centuries; Harry Galbraith, 37 centuries; John Simpson, 34 centuries, A. Felhaber, 38 centuries; John Simpson, 34 centuries, A. Felhaber, 38 centuries; So centuries; George Sweet, 30 centuries; Wellam Marshall, 82 centuries; H. J. Geurieh, 30 centuries; C. S. Dietzer, 26 centuries; W. H. Lange, 28 centuries; P. D. Dyer, 23 centuries.

H. Lange, 28 centuries; P. D. Dyer, 23 centuries. Among the women competitors for centuries the leader is, strangely enough, not Miss Yatman, who created a sensation by riding six successive centuries, nor Mrs. Lindsay, who caused a bigger sensation by riding 700 miles in less than eighty-four hours. The winner is Mrs. E. K. Bayne, who rode mostly single centuries, and finished with a score of fifty. The record for the six women in the lead is: Mrs. E. K. Bayne, 50; Miss Carrie Hitchcock, 48; Miss Jane Yatman, 33; Mrs. Jane Lindsay, 32; Mrs. May Smith, 25, and Mrs. E. M. Hitchcock, 23.

Two prominent foreign cyclists who are visiting America for the purpose of studying the aport and its manners, are Albert Gantzel of Copenhagen, and P. P. Sutton of Dublin, who is the official handicapper of the Irish Cyclists' Association. The latter, in a talk with a reporter of Thm Sun yesterday, said that the chief want in Ireland is that of good cement tracks, there being at present only one and that in the northern part of the country where there are few riders. The amateur sport is flourishing in the vicinity of Dublin, the races being held on the dirt track at Ball's Bridge. It is very slightly banked, although it takes three laps and a fraction to make a mile. Sutton says he well remembers the appearance of Arthur A. Zimmerman on that track in 1892, when the American champion had a fall, the marks of which he still carries. It was in a twenty-five-mile race for the champion-ship and there were twenty-seven starters, "Zimmy" being in one of the back rows. In one of the turns a chain broke, and a rider swerved directly in front of "Zimmy." Broth men went down and the "Skeeter" broke two front teeth. Had it not been for this Zimmerman would have won, says Sutton. Gantzel, in a talk said: "Denmark is a small country, but amateur cycling has a firm foothold there. Last season we produced a professional. Ellegard, who lowered the colors of Tommaselli, the champion of Italy, when they met in a match at Milan. You will note that Staal, the President of the I. C. A., is a Dane and we are defing quite well, thank you, but I am open for all the ideas I can get over here.

Henry E. Ducker, the veteran racing promoter, formerly of Boston and now of Albany, has been asked to accept the chairmanship of the Road Records Committee of the Century Road Club by President F. J. Porter. If this is accepted by Ducker it will bring two of the most important offices in the club into close touch within this State.

Summed up, the essential changes in the wheels of the standard makers for 1900 will be chefly in marters of detail that will arouse enthusiasm in experienced and intelligent riders, but will not be appreciable to the newcomer in the sport. One advantage of this situation to the novice is that he or she will not spend a week of afternoons and evenings at the coming bleycle show and leave it more bewildered and undetermined than ever concerning a selection. The refinements now being made in wheels are largely matters for experts to consider. The slight atterations in the lines of the frames, the drop in the crank hanger are not details that appeal to the eye of the casual observer any more than do the altered angle of the bail races in the bearing parts. The general tendency to reduce weight will be the first thing to appeal naturally, but beyond this the list of exhibitors shows that there will be new things enough in gears to puzzle all. The usual crop of mile-in-a-minute wheels has already put forth its buds and there will be abundant entertainment for those who like to speculate as to the difference between theory and practice, bearing well in mind that the "freaks" of other years are the standards of to-day. In regard to coasier-brake devices there promises to be enough to make a separate show, and again the lamp makers, who are striving toward the ideal form for an acetylene lighter, will be in evidence. One commendable feature that the American Bicycle Company proposes to add is that of having expert mechanics who can talk plain English present in the booths of its various makers to explain and women who buy wheels to use for recreation can understand the difference between "chang," "good" and "finest" workmanship in steel.

The Cycle Trades Protective Association, which is composed of about twenty concernant in the American Bicycle Company, has issued a letter, calling upon the A. B. C. to bring in stee all riders and dealers for using their wheels with bottom brackets alleged to be made by infringing the Owen patents.

Even as it was undeniable that the race meet under N. C. A. auspices, held at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory last month, was the first blow at the alliance between the Military Athletic League and the L. A. W., it has passed beyond the efforts of those who deny that the meet to be held at the Eighth Regiment Armory on next Saturiay will be a harder blow and perhaps one that will make a finish. One of the events provided for is a finish. One of the events provided for is a finish. One of the events provided for is a fearn pursuit race, open to regimental riders, and for this five regiments have entered teams. They are the Seventy-first. Twelfth, Thirteenth, Twenty-second and the Eighth. Other regiments are expected to be represented. This means that the riders of at least five regiments will be subject to suspension by the L. A. W., as all those participating will be obliged to register with the N. C. A. Almost every local amateur of ability who might contribute to a drawing card now holds allegiance to the N. C. A. As a result the athletic games, which have thus far been conducted under A. A. U. rules, have seen very small fields in the eveling events. These conditions make it desirable for the athletic clubs that hold games in conjunction with the military organizations that there should be a settlement of the "squabble" is eveling and any change would be welcomed that effected a standard.

Ex-President I. B. Potter told a reporter of The Sun vester ay that he had withdraw from active part pation in the affairs I the continuance of racing by the League, but was uncertain whether or not he would be at the National Assembly at Philadelphia. It is admitted by many of the most arient anti-racing men in this city that the legislative body of the League is likely to vote to "retain" the control of racing, because the representation at the assembly has been well gerrymanded by those who draw money fr
